Government Boats Hunting Sea Lions in North Pacific Waters

Each year boats of the government patrol leave for north-coast waters on a sea-lion-exterminating quest. The big marine mammals devastate fish "runs" entering the estuaries of northern rivers.

IMPROVING MAIN HIGHWAY AT SOUTH END OF TOWN

Reduction of a two-foot gradient in the highway, a distance of 150 yards, extending from B. K. warehouse to the Imperial oil, is underway by public works gang, in preparation for surfacing. Caterpillar shovel and trucks started this piece of work at 5 a.m. today, and expect to have it completed by tomorrow evening.

Surfacing of the Sumas highway is completed from the pumping station to Kennedy Ridge, and the work crew is now engaged at a point opposite the Starr farm, working from the Abbotsford end. The contractors expect to have the entire 10 miles of gravel road completely surfaced in 10 or 11 days.

Road Dust Delays Painting

D. Lambert has secured contract for the painting of the Sumas municipal hall. Work will be commenced as soon as the Sumas prairie highway is re-opened, as the use of Whatcom road as a detour raises too much dust.

Donates Work in Cleaning Park

The Abbotsford park, between Montrose Avenue and the swimming pool, has been considerably cleaned up recently, by Mr. McMillan, who has cut the grass and tidied the paths and the undergrowth. Mr. McMillan did the work entirely free of charge.

CUMMINGS-THOMPSON

A simple but pretty wedding took place in the Clayburn United church on Wednesday morning, when Lillian Louise, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Thompson, became the bride of Edgar Robert Cummings of Vancouver. Rev. J. E. Clark performed the ceremony in a floral alcove, beneath a large white wedding bell.

Walking down the aisle on the arm of her father, to the strains of bridal music played by Miss Bernice MacDonald, the bride made a delightful picture. She wore a becoming gown of white tulle, with long bishop sleeves and a medall collar. With this was worn a large white angleskin hat. Her flowers were orchids in corsage.

Attending as matron-of-honor, Mrs. E. Thompson was attired in mauve chiffon-organza, with large eau-de-nil picture hat. She wore a corsage of mauve sweet peas. Mrs. F. Thompson, step-mother of the bride, wore a nautical blue crepe suit.

The church was prettily decorated with sweet peas, stems of gladioli and asparagus fern. The guest pews were marked with ribbon bows and bunches of mauve sweet peas.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, for immediate relatives and friends.

Later in the afternoon the couple left by motor for Vancouver, en route to Campbell River and other points on Vancouver Island. For travelling the bride wore a brown ensemble, with hat and accessories in brown.

On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Cummings will reside in Vancouver.

GOVERNMENT TRUSTEE OF SCHOOL AFFAIRS APPOINTED

Secretaries of the Abbotsford, Sumas and Matsqui School Boards have received letters from Victoria, advising of the appointment of P. H. Sheffield as official trustee of the combined school areas. Mr. Sheffield is expected to arrive shortly from Nelson, where he was a public school inspector, and commence his duties in preparation for school re-opening. He will undoubtedly make his headquarters in Abbotsford.

In taking over school administration in the Sumas, Abbotsford and Matsqui areas, the Department of Education expects to effect decided economies in operative costs by combining bus routes and consolidating schools, at the same time providing improved health and educational facilities without raising the mill rate. It is expected that the school boards will function passively until the end of the present year, when the new director of education will be vested with full authority.

GEORGE ROBINSON

Mr. George Robinson, Sr., a former resident of Clayburn, passed away in Vancouver last week.

Before moving to Vancouver with his family, the late Mr. Robinson operated a Soldier Settler's farm on the Nicholson hill.

He was for some years an engineer at Britannia Mines.

ST ANDREW'S by the Sea

Above layout shows a good cross-section of what is being done these fine summer days at the Algonquin Hotel, St. Andrews-by-the-Sea, New Brunswick. Right, Lady Moyra Ponsonby, daughter of Their Excellencies the Governor-General and Lady Bessborough, at the conclusion of a drive from a tee at the well-known 18-hole championship golf course of the hotel. Centre shows that part of Katy's Cove dedicated to swimming, with youngsters and grown-ups alike in the sparkling waters or about to enter them. Inset illustrates another sport—sailing—with Miss Margot Redmond, daughter of Mr. R. M. and the Honorable Mrs. R. M. Redmond, of Montreal, sailing with her father and Captain Wren, off St. Andrews. Left is Miss Eugenie Auerbach, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Auerbach, of New York, all set with spade and bucket on the sands of Katy's Cove. The Algonquin Hotel represents just about the acme of summer days enjoyment and is a paradise for kiddies and grown-ups, too. Sea bathing in the warm waters of Katy's Cove and sun bathing on the shining sands are two of the most healthful and entertaining occupations of those who visit this popular and smart resort to which Their Excellencies the Governor-General and Lady Bessborough have given their patronage of late seasons.

WOMEN'S PRIVILEGES

"In the column given the Women's Clubs of Puget Sound there is a short account of the convention of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs held in Seattle three weeks ago.

It is impossible to estimate the amount of radiant energy transferred at these great conventions from dynamic speakers and thinkers to intelligent earnest listeners. Impossible to imagine what might happen to the world if women never met in convention and spoke out their hearts to each other.

One of the speakers said that women are losing ground in the professional and business world. That is difficult to believe, but the president of the International Federation must know what she is talking about. But another said that women are more and more taking over important jobs in this country; that their future is assured; that they are becoming increasingly important to civilization. However, running through that talk, there seemed to be a presence of fear that apathy and self-satisfaction might prevent them from doing what they wanted and relaxed indifference of dull minds might unite to undo the progress we have made. To this sense of defeat is attributed the acquiescence of women in the Fascist and Nazi regimes—an acquiescence so strange and consenting to the American women that she tends to doubt that Italian and German women were ever seriously "on their way".

A third speaker—a man—made what must have been an exciting and important plea for clean thinking. Don't let your emotions and the mere sound of a slogan carry you away, he urged. Think an issue through on its merits, stick to the dream of individual freedom, don't dump all responsibility onto the central government, think and act your own way out of local problems. One cheers... "When an immense group of intelligent women from all over the country convene like this to discuss social and economic problems, and when they come to certain conclusions and form them into what they call 'resolutions' people might just as well prepare for the resolutions sooner or later to become laws. Thus, since the convention has resolved that unemployment insurance must be, why it will be. When they resolve that all women's organizations ought to meet annually to 'formulate objects of the good life' it means that women are already at it and that clubs will more and more concern themselves with important aspects of government perhaps to the end that 'petty' government shall increasingly obtain and the peace and the economic well being of the world be progressed by so much.

Who wants to be favored, protected soft-soaped? Quaint old ladies adore "gentlemen of the old-school" who pull out chairs and give up seats and lend their elbows at street crossings, and generally pull their punches for women. But real she-women want the earth untempered for them, laws un-gloved. For they have long since learned that just as a too-gallant gentleman who pulls out chairs is the very guy who causes him, in some strange way, to be the one who pays his lady clerk starvation wages, so does law which "protects" women turn out to be the very real treacherous law which denies married women the right to careers, mothers the right to their children, women the right to citizenship independently of their husbands, and so on ad nauseum.

...Have done with spurious gallantry in men and laws, and let women take pot luck everywhere. They are ready for it. They can "take it." They have even learned to think—the dear little things, and long though they have been cutting their eye teeth in politics, they are beginning to do the things they said they would do, given the vote, and just try, for instance, to put over a war on them now!"—Puget Sounder.

HARRY WILL WILT NOW!

Editor News:

At the Stevens' meetings in British Columbia all the stock-in-trade of the political opportunist was made use of. One is accustomed to platform abuse of opponents and belittling of the achievements of the party in power, but it sounds worse when the speaker is criticising his former leader and conferees. Mr. Stevens' party shows little restraint when it comes to devising startling policies for the solution of national ills. To the thinking section of the public and to the unfortunate, Mr. Stevens' hare-brained schemes offer golden hopes. More than that they are merely tin-sel-covered clay. His logic is not even skin-deep. Throw the light of facts upon them and it will be revealed that they are only the hollow schemes of a fan office-seeking politician.

The Hon. Harry reveals a sample of his political gold-bricks when he proposes to pay off the national debt in 25 years by planning state-owned mines. He promises to gamble public money in mining ventures all over the great barren lands of Northern Canada in the Northwest Territories lying north of parallel 60. These N. W. Territories are the only remaining areas in Canada where the mineral resources are still under the jurisdiction of the Dominion government. Natural resources lying inside provincial boundaries are under the provincial governments.

Mr. Stevens' first plan would be to find a gold mine. It is noteworthy that apart from the worked-out Yukon fields, private enterprise has not uncovered one gold province in the Northwest Territories in spite of the

FINED FOR BRINGING DISEASED BEES INTO MATSQUI DISTRICT

Michael Pinton, a beekeeper, appeared before Magistrate C. O'D. Bell at the Matsqui police court on August 10 charged with violating the Apiculture Act with regard to non-registration of his apary. He was fined the minimum fine and costs for the offense.

According to Provincial Apiarist A. W. Finlay, the bees had been brought into Matsqui municipality without the necessary certificate of inspection, as required by the Act, and being all diseased, were a menace to adjacent beekeepers in an otherwise clean district.

Owing to the promptness of the owner in destroying the colonies on being notified regarding their condition, additional charges of violating the Act in other respects were not proceeded with.

SUMAS BOY KILLED PLAYING WITH DYNAMITE CAPS

Playing with dynamite caps, a Sumas, Wash. boy, 11 years old, sustained fatal injuries last week. He was Elwood Pratt, an orphan, who, with his brother, found the caps in a garage, where they had been stored by Mr. Kenney, filled their pockets with them and went to the barn. Elwood, not realizing the danger, rubbed one of the caps between his thumb and finger, setting it off, and simultaneously detonating 25 more caps in his pocket.

The explosion tore the unfortunate lad's clothing off, mangled his leg and inflicted other injuries from which he died in the Merrilyn Hospital a few hours later.

fact that the search has continued for years.

Of the 100 gold mines in Canada (all in provincial jurisdiction) only six or seven operated at a profit last year. In all, $12,000,000 gold was mined. Profits were about half this amount. Some did not pay their way; in the case of others it took years to bring them to their present state of productivity.

The point the writer wishes to make is that the gold produced last year was less than the interest on the national debt. In the face of all this, by what magic manner does Mr. Stevens propose to turn out enough metal to pay the national debt?

His full scheme is unsound. Mr. Stevens should remember that he is dealing with intelligent, practical-minded men and women.

If Harry Stevens conducted the affairs of Canada with no greater diligence than he exercised as director of the Manufacturers Finance Corporation—what then?

...The former Minister of Trade and Commerce seems to be counting upon the support of a portion of the retail merchants. He promises to lower the tariff as it applies to at least some of the secondary industries, including the textile industries. In this case the very worst thing that could happen to the retail merchants would be the removal of or drastic reductions in the customs protection of Canadian goods they sell. If the tariff schedules are cut down, wages of workers will be reduced and thousands of industrial employees all over Canada would be thrown out of work. Another point which the retail merchants should consider is

"The Reconstructionists are like a lot of school boys playing at politics and vital problems that only strong men can satisfactorily work out. We are not yet over what is probably the most crucial period of this country's existence and it will take serious and experienced hands and minds to pull her out of the slough of despond. Practical men of affairs are needed and wanted now, not just a lot of theorists with 'happy idealistic' theories.

Many reasons might be advanced for the failure of the policy as enunciated by Hon. H. H. Stevens, but the chief explanation is that his ideas are chimerical and that they do not make common sense.

Mr. Stevens whole theory is unsound and his program mischievous in the last degree.

"Walk straight up the road till you pass my house and see a path lead into the woods. It's a terrible steep and I ain't attempted it for years, though Tubbs and I got engaged to be married up there under the old pine. You'll find our initials cut in the bark with a heart around 'em. Victor Tubbs is a real good carver. If you run into anybody from the Adam ranch, Nancy, tell 'em we'll want extra milk to-morrow. And would you mind peekin' in my bedroom window and see if Tubbs is sleepin'? He's got a delicate stomach, and his supper didn't set good last night."

Suppressing a smile at this unique request, Nancy promised, and started on her way. The afternoon was all her own, and it was impossible not to feel a thrill at this unbelievable December day. The sun was warm; yet the paper reported a blizzard raging in New England! It seemed incredible; and next week, Nancy mused regretfully, the Country Club would be gay with winter sports.

"I wouldn't be there anyway," she consoled herself, as the homesickness she had supposed vanquished, raised its head again. "I'd be at Edgemere wiping dishes for Mother, or mopping up puddles of snow brought in by Phil. Here's the Tubbs abode already. I must see if Victor's asleep."

This brought a smile, and homesickness retired to that place where such things go when we forget ourselves. Aurora's house which set back a space from the road, was a one-story affair covered with tree-bark, and almost hidden in a grove of stunted pines. Nancy went softly up the path and peered in at a window. By pressing her face against the glass she made out an ornate iron bedstead on which the recumbent Tubbs was snoring peacefully; while one of his wife's rich layer cakes and an open jackknife stood on a nearby chair.

Thinking of Victor's "delicate stomach," the girl chuckled as she turned away. No wonder his suppers failed to digest! Should she tell on him? Nancy decided against this; but vowed that Cousin Columbine should hear the story. It was too good to keep.

She still smiled as she resumed her walk; but that path into the woods seemed to elude her. Concluding that she had missed it, Nancy stepped aside to escape the dust from an approaching truck, and recognizing the hatless figure of Matthew Adam, hailed him as he was about to pass.

Although on one pretext or another, Mark had dropped in almost every day of the past two weeks, Nancy had not seen Matthew since his blushing exit after colliding with Aurora Tubbs. He was blushing now, the girl observed, and wondered if it were the same blush, or a new one for her especial benefit! She said, as a shy smile hovered across his face on recognizing her: "Sorry to make you stop if you're in a hurry, but Aurora wants more milk to-morrow. And will you show me how I can reach that hill? I've lost my way."

As Matt slid lightly from the truck to stand beside her, Nancy was again impressed with the young man's appearance. His blush had subsided; but something told her that he was struggling with embarrassment and furious with himself because of it.

"You should have turned off just after you passed Aurora's," he told her, "but it's no wonder you missed the trail, so few go up that way. It's an easier climb from the other side. If—if you don't mind riding on the truck I'll take you 'round.'"

He was blushing again. Nancy caught the idea that he had forced himself to make the offer out of politeness, and thus responded: "Aren't you too busy?"

"Not busy at all; but this truck is second cousin to Methuselah, and—"

Nancy laughed. "You needn't apologize for the truck! I'm tickled to go for a ride in anything at all. My feet have had plenty of use since I struck Pine Ridge; but that hill tempted me, and the day, too. Isn't it glorious?"

With Matt's assistance she had reached the seat, and said, as they backed around: "Is it far to the other side of the hill?"

"A couple o' miles, maybe."

"Miles! Why I thought it was only a step!"

"To the top of that hill? Well, it's not much more, from here; but it's pretty steep, and we can ride half way up from the other side. My mother used to take us there on picnics when we were kids."

Seeing that the young man's embarrassment had dropped away when he spoke of his mother, Nancy grasped the cue.

"Cousin Columbine tells us that Mrs. Adam is—well, what she said was: 'Eve Adam is a grand success as a mother!'"

"I'll say she is!" Matt faced her, smiling, and Nancy saw that he had completely forgotten himself at last. Then the color dyed his face again and he stammered awkwardly: "I—I don't mean that we boys have turned out anything above the average; but—but that—"

"I know what you mean," smiled Nancy, coming to his rescue, "though I think Cousin Columbine meant just what you're denying. It must be nice to have such enviable reputations! How did your mother manage it with all four of you?"

She couldn't resist teasing him a little, but it was kindly tact which made her bring the conversation back to his mother; and Matthew answered: "By being herself, I guess. She was always on hand, you know, so perhaps we didn't get into as many scrapes as some kids. Mother's a wonder; and Dad is too. I'm rather crazy about my people, but—but I've said enough. Don't know what you're going on!"

"I got you going!" admitted Nancy, a twinkle lighting her blue eyes. And then: "Oh, look! Is that a snow-capped mountain range on the horizon?"

Matthew nodded.

"Here's where we turn. Do you mind a little cross-country riding in this old wreck? You're likely to get some jolts, but—Look out there!"

This warning was too late, and only a quick snatch of Matthew's arm which brought her tight against his khaki coat for just a minute, kept Nancy from losing her balance as they dipped into a rain-worn gully. When he released her and the girl looked up, she saw that all his previous confusions were as nothing compared to the embarrassment that engulfed him now. This amused sophisticated Nancy, and she said demurely:

"Thanks for saving my life! Is that another of those pleasant little thank-you-ma'ams looming up ahead? If you'll tell me when one's approaching I'll hang on tight and save you the trouble of rescuing me a second time."

"It—it wasn't a bit of trouble," stammered Matthew. "I mean—I didn't in the least mind—I—"

"I'm glad to know that the experience wasn't unpleasant," broke in Nancy, her eyes dancing. "Do I get out here?" (as Matt, his face the color of a peony, stopped the engine.) "And do I keep straight on until I reach the top?"

"I'd better show you the way, hadn't I? That is—unless—unless you'd rather go alone. I—I don't want to butt in if—"

"Oh, come on," laughed Nancy. "I wasn't keen on solitude, if that's what you mean. And if you've got time to play around for an hour, nothing would please me more. Jack was vanquishing a wood pile; Cousin Columbine was napping, and Aurora was too much inclined to give advice, so I ran away."

Matthew laughed softly. It was a pleasant laugh and his voice was pleasant too, thought Nancy, when he forgot himself and spoke naturally.

"Aurora Tubbs strikes me completely dumb," he told her; "and advice is one of her strong points. She's never recovered from my going to college—thinks it was the last word in foolishness. What's she found to pick at about you?"

"Stockings!" said Nancy, and wondered if Matt, following close behind in the narrow path, was blushing again. "My sport hose got left at home, and she implored me to borrow a pair of Cousin Columbine's 'black cottons.' Honestly, I didn't know till I saw Cousin Columbine the day we came, that cotton stockings were manufactured any more."

"They're growing scarcer all the time," said Matthew gravely. "Even in Pine Ridge there's not much call for 'em; and the high lace boot is doomed."

Nancy whirled about. This was the strangest young man she had ever come across. One moment he stammered with confusion, and the next was saying something as amusing as it was unexpected. Their eyes met as she turned, and they both laughed, and laughing, felt better acquainted.

"I wonder," remarked the girl as she started forward, "where Cousin Columbine gets hers?"

"You mean the boots?"

Nancy nodded because the trail was steeper here, and she found herself a little short of breath.

"Maybe she gets 'em where she gets the middies," suggested Matthew. "Slow down, Miss—er . . ."

"Don't be Victorian," said Nancy, without turning. "Was I going too fast?"

"Too fast for your own good, at this altitude. It takes time to get acclimated when you're transplanted from sea level. Has your brother found a job?"

"Not yet; and he's pretty worried. Oh, just look at the Peak! And—and—why I never imagined such a view. I didn't know there was anything like it in the world!"

Matt beamed, as pleased with her enthusiasm as if he were responsible for the view himself.

"Keep on," he told her, "till you reach that old pine that's been struck by lightning. That tree is practically on the summit; and there isn't a finer view for miles."

"How could there be?" Nancy stood, breathless at the foot of the ancient tree. Plains, and mesas, and mountains lay stretched before her—behind her—on every side; valleys that would be green as emeralds in summer; deep gorges; snow-capped peaks. "It's almost too beautiful to be true," she said at last. "Why has no one ever built a home, here on this spot?"

Matt tapped the scarred old tree trunk, shaved clear of bark where lightning had done its work.

"A house would be too good a target! This is the highest point in several miles. Are you afraid of thunder showers? If so, you'd better pack your trunk before the middle of May!"

"Are the showers so bad?"

Depends On Soldiers

Ethiopia May Lose Services Of The Red Cross

The ministrations of the Red Cross may be withheld from Ethiopia in case of war with Italy because Emperor Haile Selassie has so far been unable to give his word that his soldiers will not mutilate captives, according to Field Director T. A. Lambie, of the Ethiopian mission service. Dr. Lambie explained the Emperor could not "sincerely" pledge his word in this regard because of the almost uncontrollable ferocity of some Ethiopian frontier tribes. The mission director is trying to organize in London an ambulance corps for Ethiopia.

Tip For Stamp Collectors

Stamp collectors have had a new postal ruling aimed at them. Some, it seems, prefer to take a full sheet of stamps and gaze at it until they find a stamp of a variation in shade or style that suits their strange tastes, then purchase it. New orders have been issued to postal stamp sales folk that in future the stamp collector cannot peek; he'll get just the same treatment as any other stamp purchaser. 2108

Long Bicycle Trip

Pedals Machine From Nova Scotia To Vancouver

A 20-year-old jobless farmhand from Nova Scotia has a bit of advice to pass on to ambitious young Canadians who are unemployed and desire to keep up their morale and good health.

His advice is—do something. Two months ago Hubert Smith of Amherst, N.S., packed a few belongings including some blankets and a tent, packed them on his bicycle and started out.

Recently he arrived in Vancouver, ruddy-faced, happy and in the best of health after cycling 3,750 miles over Canadian highways with his 80-pound load.

A Favorite Instrument

Malayans Like Bagpipes And Have Learned To Play Them

The Malaysians like the bagpipes, and they play them as well. It is only 18 months since the instruments were introduced to them, but already the johore military forces have given their first public performance—and it was a great success. It was at a military tattoo arranged as a farewell to the Sultanah, a Scotswoman who hails from Edinburgh, and is commander-in-chief of the forces, before her departure for Europe.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

—By Aline Michaelis—
FORSAKEN CRESTS

Upon a hill, no matter where,
A hill abrupt and bold, rock-strewn,
Four walls, unfinished, cleave the air
And fade in light of sun and moon.

They crumble in the wind and rain;
All unperceived, slow year by year,
They mingle with the earth again,
Their outline grows less sharp, less clear.

I wonder if the builder's thought
Does not, in longing, sometimes wing
Back to this hope which came to naught,
This poor, eroded, ruined thing?

Once I built so; dear God, I yearn
For vistas cloud-brushed, sun-sweet, vast!
Who knows? Perhaps I shall return
To those forsaken crests at last!

Talking About House-Flies

—Do You Know This?

Doctors And Scientists Realize Danger To Human Life Caused By This Pest

A common house-fly has four black stripes on its back. It has large eyes, short feelers and one pair of wings. It has two small, round balancers, borne on slender stalks, which also act as organs of hearing. A house-fly cannot bite. Its mouth is spread out for sucking. It has to soak a hard object, like a grain of sugar, with saliva from its own mouth before it can suck it up.

It breeds in heaps of filth and waste and carries disease germs on its hairy legs. It lays one hundred to two hundred eggs in one batch which hatch into maggots in twenty-four hours and after five days become the pupae. This refers to the in-between stage after they are maggots and before they are adult flies.

Is it any wonder that doctors, scientists, health authorities who realize the danger to human life which is carried around by this deadly pest, urge its extermination by every possible means. Infant Diarrhoea, which causes the death of so many little children during the summer months, has been directly traced to the common house-fly.

Cleaning up unsanitary, fly-breeding places around the house, keeping food and drink covered and cupboard doors closed, using screens on doors and windows will all help, but one of the safest, cleanest, surest, easiest methods of killing all the flies is to use Wilson's Fly Pads, for an hour or two daily during the warm weather. They'll keep you free of the disgusting pests. Isn't it worth a little thought for the children's sake?

British Short Wave Programs

To Be Featured Over Canadian Radio Commission Network

Rebroadcasting throughout Canada of British short wave programs will shortly become a regular feature in the national network programs of the Canadian Radio Broadcasting Commission.

After months of experimenting the commission has constructed near Ottawa, a powerful short wave receiving station which will pick up British Broadcasting Corporation programs and relay them direct to CRBC in Ottawa. There they will later be put out over the commission's national network.

With the powerful new receiver in stations in England, France, Germany and other European countries on what is known as the great circle line.

Because of the difference in time which makes it inconvenient to Canadian listeners to hear British programs direct, the daily programs will not be relayed in, but Blatner-phone recordings will be made of the best, and they will be a regular feature each evening in the national programs.

Charges Made That S.S. Millpool Was Not Seaworthy

Little Helps For This Week

Speak Lord; for Thy servant heareth. I. Samuel 3.9.

Though heralded with nought of fear,
Or outward sign or show,
Though only to the inward ear
It whispers not and low;
Though dropping as the manna fell,
Unseen, yet from above,
Noiseless as dew-fall, heed it well—
Thy Father's call of love.
—J. G. Whittier.

This is one result of the attitude into which we are put by humility, by purity, by calmness, that we have the silence in which to watch what is the will of God concerning us. If we think no more of ourselves than we ought to think, if we seek not our own but others' welfare, if we are prepared to take all things as God's dealings with us, then we may have a chance from time to time to catch what God has to tell us. In the Mussulman devotions one constant gesture is to put the hands to the ears as if to listen to the messages from the other world. This is the attitude which our minds assume if we have a standing place above and beyond the stir and confusion of this mortal world.

WOMEN'S PRIVILEGES

"In the column given the Women's Clubs of Puget Sound there is a short account of the convention of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs held in Seattle three weeks ago.

It is impossible to estimate the amount of radiant energy transferred at these great conventions from dynamic speakers and thinkers to intelligent earnest listeners. Impossible to imagine what might happen to the world if women never met in convention and spoke out their hearts to each other.

One of the speakers said that women are losing ground in the professional and business world. That is difficult to believe, but the president of the International Federation must know what she is talking about. But another said that women are more and more taking over important jobs in this country; that their future is assured; that they are becoming increasingly important to civilization. However, running through that talk, there seemed to be a presentiment of fear that apathy and self-satisfaction, and a sense of having got what they wanted and relaxed indifference of dull minds might unite to undo the progress we have made. To this sense of defeat is attributed the acquiescence of women in the Fascist and Nazi regimes—an acquiescence so strange and confusing to the American women that she tends to doubt that Italian and German women were ever seriously "on their way"....

A third speaker—a man—made what must have been an exciting and important plea for clean thinking. Don't let your emotions and the mere sound of a slogan carry you away, he urged. Think an issue through on its merits, stick to the dream of individual freedom, don't dump all responsibility onto the central government, think and act your own way out of local problems. One cheers....

"When an immense group of intelligent women from all over the country convene like this to discuss social and economic problems, and when they come to certain conclusions and form them into what they call "resolutions" people might just as well prepare for the resolutions sooner or later to become laws. Thus, since the convention has resolved that unemployment insurance must be, why it will be. When they resolve that all women's organizations ought to meet annually to "formulate objects of the good life" it means that women are already at it and that clubs will more and more concern themselves with important aspects of government perhaps to the end that "petticoat government" shall increasingly obtain and the peace and the economic well being of the world be progressed by so much.

Who wants to be favored, protected soft-soaped? Quaint old ladies adore "gentlemen of the old school" who pull out chairs and give up seats and lend their elbows at street crossings, and generally pull their punches for women. But real she-women want the earth untempered for them, laws unglorified. For they have long since learned that just as a too-gallant gentleman who pulls out chairs is the very guy whose "slushy" respect for women causes him, in some strange way, to be the one who pays his lady clerk starvation wages, so does law which "protects" women turn out to be the very real treacherous law which denies married women the right to careers, mothers the right to their children, women the right to citizenship independently of their husbands, and so on ad nauseum.

...Have done with spurious gallantry in men and laws, and let women take pot luck everywhere. They are ready for it. They can "take it." They have even learned to think—the dear little things, and long though they have been cutting their eye teeth in politics, they are beginning to do the things they said they would do, giving the vote, and just try, for instance, to put over a war on them now!"—Puget Sounder.

HARRY WILL WILT NOW!

Editor News:

At the Stevens' meetings in British Columbia all the stock-in-trade of the political opportunist was made use of. One is accustomed to platform abuse of opponents and belittling of the achievements of the party in power, but it sounds worse when the speaker is criticising his former leader and confederates. Mr. Stevens' party shows little restraint when it comes to devising startling policies for the solution of national ills. To the unthinking section of the public and to the unfortunate, Mr. Stevens' hare-brained schemes offer golden hopes. More than that they are merely tinsel-covered clay. His logic is not even skin-deep. Throw the light of facts upon them and it will be revealed that they are only the hollow schemes of a fan office-seeking politician.

The Hon. Harry reveals a sample of his political gold-bricks when he proposes to pay off the national debt in 25 years by planning state-owned mines. He promises to gamble public money in mining ventures all over the great barren lands of Northern Canada in the Northwest Territories lying north of parallel 60. These N. W. Territories are the only remaining areas in Canada where the mineral resources are still under the jurisdiction of the Dominion government. Natural resources lying inside provincial boundaries are under the provincial governments.

Mr. Stevens' first plan would be to find a gold mine. It is noteworthy that apart from the worked-out Yukon fields, private enterprise has not uncovered one gold property in the Northwest Territories in spite of the

Michael Pinton, a beekeeper, appeared before Magistrate C. O'D. Bell at the Matsqui police court on August 10 charged with violating the Apianation Act with regard to non-registration of his apiary. He was fined the minimum fine and costs for the offense.

According to Provincial Apiarist A. W. Finlay, the bees had been brought into Matsqui municipality without the necessary certificate of inspection, as required by the Act, and being all diseased, were a menace to adjacent beekeepers in an otherwise clean district.

Owing to the promptness of the owner in destroying the colonies on being notified regarding their condition, additional charges of violating the Act in other respects were not proceeded with.

SUMAS BOY KILLED PLAYING WITH DYNAMITE CAPS

Playing with dynamite caps, a Sumas, Wash. boy, 11 years old, sustained fatal injuries last week. He was Elwood Pratt, an orphan, who, with his brother, found the caps in a garage, where they had been stored by Mr. Kenney, filled their pockets with them and went to the barn. Elwood, not realizing the danger, rubbed one of the caps between his thumb and finger, setting it off, and simultaneously detonating 25 more caps in his pocket.

The explosion tore the unfortunate lad's clothing off, mangled his leg and inflicted other injuries from which he died in the Merriam Hospital a few hours later.

Of the 100 gold mines in Canada (all in provincial jurisdiction) only six or seven operated at a profit last year. In all, $102,000,000 gold was mined. Profits were about half this amount. Some did not pay their way in the case of others it took years to bring them to their present state of productivity.

The point the writer wishes to make is that the gold produced last year was less than the interest on the national debt. In the face of all this, by what magic manner does Mr. Stevens propose to turn out enough metal to pay the national debt?

His full scheme is unsound. Mr. Stevens should remember that he is dealing with intelligent, practical-minded men and women.

If Harry Stevens conducted the affairs of Canada with no greater diligence than he exercised as director of the Manufacturers Finance Corporation—what then?

...The former Minister of Trade and Commerce seems to be counting upon the support of a portion of the retail merchants. He promises to lower the tariff as it applies to at least some of the secondary industries, including the textile industries. In this case the very worst thing that could happen to the retail merchants would be the removal of or drastic reductions in the customs protection of Canadian goods they sell. If the tariff schedules are cut down, wages of workers will be reduced and thousands of industrial employees all over Canada would be thrown out of work. Another point which the retail merchants should consider is

...The Reconstructionists are like a lot of school boys playing at politics and vital problems that only strong men can satisfactorily work out. We are not yet over what is probably the most crucial period of this country's existence and it will take serious and experienced hands and minds to pull her out of the slough of despond. Practical men of affairs are needed and wanted now, not just a lot of theorists with "happy idealistic" theories.

Many reasons might be advanced for the failure of the policy as enunciated by Hon. H. H. Stevens, but the chief explanation is that his ideas are chimerical and that they do not make common sense.

Mr. Stevens' whole theory is unsound and his program mischievous in the last degree.

The Country Weekly Newspaper

"What do you think of the future of country newspapers?" This question was asked Mr. Wright A. Patterson by a teacher of journalism in one of the western United States state universities in the course of a conversation in which the successful efforts of big city dailies and periodicals to increase circulation in rural sections was noted, and the editorial content of these publications discussed. In answer, Mr. Patterson painted a picture of the future as he sees it.

Admitting that there is a place for the small weekly newspaper—and there is, and probably nowhere more decidedly so than on the prairies of Western Canada—the important question is: How is that position to be maintained, improved, developed; and are our Western Canadian editors alive to the situation and endeavoring to meet it? If they are, they will undoubtedly receive the public support they will so well deserve.

Both weekly newspaper publishers and the reading public will be interested in Mr. Patterson's word-picture as it is presented in a recent issue of The Publishers' Auxiliary. While a bit too lengthy for complete reproduction in this column, excerpts may be given:—

"There has been, within the last quarter of a century, a radical change in the people of the rural communities—the people of the towns and on the farms. Up to a quarter of a century ago, these communities were self-centred. The people seldom got beyond their local market place. It was a day's task for the farmer and his family to get as far away from home as the nearest town, possibly not more than three or four miles away. The only form of conveyance was the farm wagon, or the horse and buggy. The roads were narrow stretches of dirt that were, during portions of the year practically impassable. From one year to another the vast majority of the rural people—the people of the towns and farms—did not get beyond their municipal lines. It was the exceptional rural family whose children went away to school. The students at universities were largely from the cities and the number attending universities was small as compared to the present time.

"Under such conditions the horizon of the rural family was extremely limited. Its members had practically no contact with the outside world and quite naturally the interests of these rural people centred about themselves and their neighbors.

"The country newspaper that catered to that local interest, that recorded the events in which the people of each community played a part, was satisfactory to the people of these communities. To this local news coverage, many editors added some general news and entertainment material and made for that time a satisfying newspaper that met very rural reader-demand.

"Today conditions are radically different. The automobile and good roads have made travel possible. The day's trip now is to the city anywhere from 50 to 300 miles distant from the rural home. The World War took tens of thousands of the boys of the farm into distant training camps and associated them with boys from every section of the nation, and with every class. It sent them across the ocean into far distant lands. It widened their horizon to include practically the entire world and all classes of people and all forms of activities. It gave them a new outlook and new interests. That was 18 and 20 years ago. The farm and town boys of the World War days are now the men, the heads of families, of the rural communities of these days.

"The radio has brought the world to the rural community fireside. It has widened the view of the people of these communities until it includes all Canada, the United States, England, France, Japan, Australia and every known point in the world.

"Go to the universities to-day and a large percentage of the students are from the towns and the farms. These young people are acquiring for themselves and taking back to the rural homes from which they come, an increased interest in national and world affairs, in history in the making, in the arts and sciences and in literature.

"As a class the rural audience of to-day is a more intelligent audience than that of the city. The people of the towns and farms have to-day a wider interest than the average individual of the city. They are in no sense provincial.

"It is such an audience the country newspaper of to-day and to-morrow must appeal to if it is to live. It must bring to them intelligent interpretations of what is happening throughout the world because it is to-day their world, and they know that its happenings may directly concern themselves. The cotton farmers of the Southern States know that happenings in far-away Japan may make or break the price they get for their cotton. They know that should war come between Italy and Ethiopia, it might affect the regulation of the waters of the Blue Nile and so affect the cotton crop of the Egyptian Sudan and create a larger demand and higher price for American cotton—their cotton. The wheat farmers of Western Canada know that drouth in Russia, in Argentina, in Australia, in France or many other sections of the world would certainly raise the price they would get for their product.

"The people of the towns and farms insist upon keeping in touch with those national and world affairs that have a direct bearing on their lives. They expect the newspaper they buy to bring to them interpretations of such happenings. They do not want rumors and surmises, but they do want statements of fact and what such facts mean. They will buy the newspaper that gives them such information."

Weekly newspaper editors are awakening to these new conditions. They are realizing that it is quality not quantity of reading matter that is demanded, and that the demand can be met in the limited space of eight to 10 or 12-page papers, giving them room to cover the community happenings and with that interpretations of events in the nation and the world, and a reasonable amount of entertainment.

For the paper that does these things there is a future. Such a paper will cover all of the to-day's national and world interests of its readers and will make itself so meet the newspaper needs as to leave no necessary place for a paper from the outside. For such a paper there is a future, greater than that of the past, and the majority of the editors of country newspapers are awake to these things. The small minority that are not, or do not awaken will, in time, pass out of the picture.

Forgetting Time Off

L. F. Loree, president D. & H. Railway says: "When you look over the people who get to the top you'll still find that they're the people who followed the old fashioned way of working like the dickens until they got where they wanted to get, people who forgot about time off."

One Explanation

Some surprise is expressed by an American sports journal at the return of the bicycle to popularity. It may be due to the fact says the Winnipeg Tribune that so many people desire to combine a sense of safety with the thrill of rounding a curve on two wheels.

Reclamation Work

Applications From Farmers Keep Pouring In, And Work Progresses
Hon. Robert Weir, minister of agriculture, received a report from Dr. E. S. Archibald, director of experimental farms and chairman of the advisory committee which has the reclamation work in hand. The report indicated active co-operation from the western farmers to the undertaking.

Up to date 80 townships in drouth-frequented areas have joined the community effort by which each farmer agrees to follow advice of the departmental experts in cropping their lands, sowing grasses and in other ways co-operate to protect the communities from soil drifting and other drouth ills.

Applications for engineering and other assistance in the construction of water conservations are being received. This assistance is asked for in the construction of dug-outs, small stock-watering dams, small irrigation dams for farm and ranch forage crop productions, flood schemes and pumping schemes. "They are pouring into the department at the rate of 60 to 100 a day," the report stated.

"On July 5, there were 102 applications from groups of farmers asking for assistance in dugouts and small watering dams, averaging 25 farms per application." There were more than 700 other applications from individual farmers.

"Over 70 applications have been received and a certain amount of engineer investigating already done on many of these for the construction of community dams for domestic use, land irrigations, or animal in transit water supply," the report said.

"Amongst those which have already been found feasible by the engineering staff are Wild Horse project, White Mud project, Souris dam, Crystal City dam and others.

"An engineering staff consisting of one senior engineer, nine engineers, and one junior engineer has reported for duty and thanks to the co-operation of the Dominion hydrometric service, which has supplied necessary instruments, are busily engaged in field engineering work. Reports with recommendations are coming in from these engineers rapidly.

New Form Of Flight

Man In Florida Has Used Wings With Success

The idea of strapping "wings" on a man was elaborated in some detail by Leonardo da Vinci. At the Science Museum in South Kensington there is the original "Ornithopter" designed by Frost in 1902. It is a beautiful work but never flew. It seems now that a new form of flight has been made practicable by Clem Sohn, known as the "human bat" who only recently flew over Daytona Beach, Florida, with "wings" of his design attached to his arms and "webbed feet". The earliest dreamers who sighed for the wings of a dove could have done the same if only they had had some means of alighting safely. The parachute has made bird-like flight possible. Once the airman has thrown himself from an airplane at a suitable height he has only to fall 1,000 feet to gather a speed of 100 to 150 m.p.m. At this speed he can glide bank, turn, or execute any manoeuvre.

Old Game Revived

Chinese Again Playing Polo After Lapse Of 300 Years

For the first time in three centuries two Chinese teams recently galloped about a polo field. The historic occasion was part of the athletic meeting of General Shang Chen's 32nd National army held at the temple of agriculture in Peiping.

Although the Chinese were playing polo 1,000 years ago, the game was allowed to lapse and was not revived until inspiration was furnished by Lt. Henry S. Jenigan, young Kentuckian and West Pointer of Uncle Sam's cavalry. He is stationed at Peiping for the study of the Chinese language.

Delegates Entertained

At the annual convention of the Saskatchewan Rural Municipal Secretary-treasurers, the delegates and wives were entertained at a theatre party given by the Central Press Limited, Regina, and greatly enjoyed the picture "In Caliente" shown at the Capitol theatre.

Pretty Wife (on stand in divorce court): "It was the old story, a horse and a jackass can never agree."

Husband (roaring, as he shook off the restraining hand of his attorney): "See here, don't you call me a horse!"

Empire Trade Agreements

New Deal With Canada Desired By Australian Premier

A new trade agreement with Canada embodying additional features is desired by Australia, Prime Minister Joseph A. Lyons of that Dominion said in his conference with Prime Minister R. B. Bennett.

The empire trade agreements negotiated in 1932 had proved satisfactory and had brought about an increase in trade. Australia was anxious to achieve further increases and believed a revision of the present treaty in the light of experience would accomplish this. While it was true Canadian exports to Australia had increased more rapidly than Australian exports to Canada, Australia had no grievance and did not consider it had got the worst of the bargain.

Happy Landings

Thrilling Episode Enacted At Moscow Military Airfield

A jumper whose parachute was torn away in midair was saved by a fellow parachutist in a thrilling episode at the Moscow military airfield.

Soldier Noskoff caught on the stabilizer of an aeroplane after leaping from the wing, lost his chute and hurtled down. In midair he struck another parachutist, Soldier Krasikoff, and clutched him desperately.

They fell rapidly, until 300 feet above the earth Noskoff found the cord of Krasikoff's reserve chute and opened it in time to check their fall. Both landed safely.

Vimy Pilgrimage

Dominion Organizer Leaves For Europe To Complete Plans

Ben. W. Allen, Dominion Organizer of the Vimy Pilgrimage which is being planned by the Canadian Legion of the British Empire Service League, sailed on the Cunard-White Star Liner Alaudia to complete arrangements for the reception and billeting of Canada's Peace Army which, at this time next year will be crossing the Atlantic en route to the Battlefields of France and Belgium.

"While the climax of the Pilgrimage will undoubtedly be the Unveiling of the great Memorial on Vimy Ridge," Mr. Allen stated, "the itinerary will include visits to the Battlefields and cemeteries in the Amiens, Arras and Ypres sectors, where the Canadian Corps fought its greatest battles and Canada's citizen soldiers made their greatest contribution towards victory and peace."

On the continent, Mr. Allen will confer with the French and Belgian authorities and ex-servicemen's organizations regarding the official part of the program and will complete the arrangements for the route to be followed and the transport and billeting facilities. "We have already had indications," Mr. Allen said, "that our old allies propose to make our visit next year the occasion for joyful demonstrations of comradeship and international friendship. It will be a tremendous experience for the 'troops' and their families."

In London, Mr. Allen, will confer with officials of the British Empire Service League, the Dominion Office and the Canadian High Commissioner regarding the ceremonies which will be held during the four-day visit of the Pilgrims to the Empire capital. Other bodies interested in the arrangements for the Pilgrimage and on whom Mr. Allen will call while in England, are the Canadian Battlefields Memorials Commission, the Imperial War Graves Commission, and the Canadian Pacific and Cunard-White Star Steamship Lines.

Donaldson Atlantic Line

Change Of Name Is Announced By Agents

Donaldson Atlantic Line is the new name for the former Anchor-Donaldson Line, it was announced by Cunard White Star Limited, who are their agents in Canada and the United States.

"The change of name signifies the return of the Canadian-Scottish passenger service to complete control by the Donaldson interests which originally promoted it," stated George D. Huband, deputy chief Canadian representative of Cunard White Star, in an interview at Montreal.

"The Donaldson Line itself commenced its Canadian operations in 1870 and has since then maintained continuously its Canadian operations in service between Canada and its home port of Glasgow. Its growth has also been marked by the acquisition of the old Allan Line service to South America, the development of the Montreal-Bristol Channel trade and the service from Vancouver to Great Britain."

Experiment In Human Nature

One Dollar Sent To 1,000 Toronto Citizens As A Test

An experiment in human nature began in Toronto when 1,000 citizens received a $1 bill in the mail.

The currency was enclosed in an envelope with a message from the Ontario Safety League.

"Here's a dollar. Keep it if you want to, but I don't think you will," read the letter from J. F. H. Wyse, secretary of the league.

The experiment started, officials said, when a citizen donated $1,000 to the league, and asked it be sent to 1,000 persons as an appeal for funds to protect the safety of children.

The donor pointed out 1,000 children were killed in Canada since 1925 and declared, "The enclosed dollar is evidence of one man's faith in humanity and is invested in the belief every dollar will come back—and that each dollar will bring back more."

Air Routes Are Valuable

Make Communication With All Parts Of Empire Possible

Air and Empire are closely linked. The most valuable bonds in any empire are its communications. The Romans knew that. Their roads were veins for their empire's life-blood. But the speed of modern transport has made communications ten times more valuable. If Britons and Americans could have used air-planes to exchange their views in 1775 America might never have left the Empire. The more air routes we open to keep the Empire together the fewer problems will arise to keep it apart.—London Sunday Express.

New Gyroplane Tried Out

A newly perfected gyroplane, an aerial craft capable of rising vertically like a helicopter and attaining horizontal speeds comparable to those of ordinary aeroplanes, went through an initial trying out at Villacoublay, France.

HONOR WAR DEAD

The Canadian Legion of the B. E. S. L. A. S. M. branch, held their annual memorial service at the Cenotaph, Abbotsford, on Sunday afternoon. Owing to the excessively hot weather, there was not the usual large attendance.

The war veterans paraded from the Legion hall at 2:30 p.m. with New Westminster band in attendance. Col. Cope conducted the service and the address was given by Lt.-Col. W. S. Buell, C.B.E. Floral offerings were placed on the Cenotaph by R. Ralston, president, and were exceptionally beautiful. After the service refreshments were served in the Orange hall to veterans and their friends.

SPORT BRIEFS

Softballers Try Donkey Riding

The spectators got sore sides from laughter and the players got worse than that from playing, at the donkey baseball game in Sumas last week.
Abbotsford lost to Sumas, but that didn't worry anybody. It seems all players except the pitcher and catcher ride donkeys, and while no second Pete Knight was discovered in the local ball team, there seemed to be some real fancy diving talent!

Slim's Beat Matsqui in Play-offs

Slim's softball team advanced into the final of the Tip Top Tailors cup competition when they defeated the Matsqui team in two straight games on Sunday.

Both encounters were of a robust nature with plenty of "crabbing" taking place. The Matsqui team almost finished winners in the second game but a barrage of last-inning hits by Slim's put them well ahead.

Final Softball Tilt Sunday

The final play-offs for the cup take place on Sunday next, when the Atangard squad and Slim's meet in a two-games-out-of-three battle. As this is the high spot of the season, it should be well worth watching, and unless we miss our guess, there'll be lots of excitement.

Track Meet Friday

Annual track meet staged by the Peardonville Live Y's is to be held Friday on the Jubilee grounds, when clubs from Ridgedale, Huntingdon, Abbotsford, Aberdeen, Stratton and Peardonville will compete for the Vancouver Province silver cup.

If you wish to be fair...

PRINTERS in the Fraser Valley are endeavoring to meet from nearby cities a class of competition which destroys business — less-than-cost prices — which, like the scabbing in other lines of work, breaks down the workers' livelihood. If the farmer, mechanic and small business man cannot get a living for his family, what happens?

Forced out of employment by automatic machinery, certain Vancouver journeymen printers have got use of idle presses and type, taken their children from school and set up in business under sweatshop conditions, pricing work at bare cost of paper,
for what? ... sacrifice themselves,
like many others, at the altar of "un-fostered overhead" ... and drag down other small printers with them.

Hardware, grocery, automobile and other lines have organized against this eruption of Bad Business. Established printers are desperately endeavoring to do so.

Proximity to Coast cities has always made The News subject to this class of competition. Some of it the local shop can't meet. Most of it it CAN AND DOES meet. This has been our offer in the past; we reiterate it—15% Discount upon every class of ordinary job printing from the trade list of any western city or town in Canada, Winnipeg west.

This price applies, and has applied only to "local" work—printing used locally—work which the home shop needs and must have in order to carry on.

If you want to be fair, this is a fair
